Home Movies is a series of animations and creative video narratives about the experiences of everyday life in my home, garden and the street where I live.

They experiment with different moving images approaches:

A series of garden wildlife videos processed in different Creation Effects styles.

Love, Life and Death in Stop Motion is a series of stop motion animations of kitchen and household items, sometimes humorous but also depicting violence and feelings of frustration at the powerlessness of much of everyday life.

Wildlife Experiments use video of different animals in my garden, using After Effects and Creation Effects templates to mimic family videos, but also convey different moods - nostalgia for hedgehogs that seem no longer to come to the garden, cartoon cats.

Walking in Fragments explores different fragmentary experiences of walking down my 'Anywhere Street' based on hyperlapse and SloMo iPhone footage and photographs at different times of the year.
